Tree-ripened peaches .. the juicier the better .. are perfect for freezing.

Miss Janet L. Cameron, nutritionist at VPI, says firm fruit is fine for canning, but a peach to freeze should be so ripe that the skin peals off without dipping in hot water.

A bushel makes about 20 quarts canned or frozen. It's smart to make up the syrup ahead. For freezing, chill it and add ascorbic acid or some antioxidant to prevent browning.

Good freezing varities are Red Haven, Golden Jubilee, Hale Haven and Georgia Belle.

For freezing, make syrup by adding 3 cups of sugar to 4 cups of water. Heat until sugar is dissovled. When cold, add 1/4 teaspoon ascorbic acid. Peel fruit, cut directly into containers and cover with the cold syrup. To be sure to keep the peaches covered with syrup, place a piece of crumbled wax paper on top before putting cover on the container.

Square plastic or cardboard containers are easy to use, but freezing bags of plastic or other moisture-vapor-proof paper are fine.. Freeze peaches at once in coldest part of the freezer.

Canning peaches by the cold-pack method is easiest. Prepare them by peeling (dip in boiling water if necessary to loosen the skins), cut in half, and pack compactly into jars, turning the peaches cup-side down and fitting each one tightly over the other. Cover the peaches in jar with hot syrup (1 cup sugar to 2 cups water) and process pints 25 minutes, quarts 35 minutes, in bolling water to cover the jars.

Pickled peaches are delightful to serve with winter meals or ham or chicken. The small or hard fruit is fine for pickling. Make syrup for pickles by bolling 2 pounds of sugar, 2 cups vinegar, 1/2 ounce stick cinnamon, and 1/4 cup... Peel the peaches and pack... at a time in the syrup... tender or glossy. Pack... sterilized jars, cover with... just lids, and seal.

To make peach jam... finely chopped peeled peach... cup lemon juice (or 1 tea... frozen concentrate), and 1 bottle liquid pectin. ... peaches and sugar for one ... stirring to prevent scorch... lemon juice and pectin, ... skim and keep stirring for ... minutes. Pour jam quickly ... jellized glasses. Makes about ... ounce jelly glasses.

A case of polio was reported this week in Appomattox County, as an emergency March of Dimes drive got under way.

There were fears of a second case, but we are advised this morning that a colored boy sent to Charlottesville this week for examination was found not to have polio.

The one new case was that of a white boy, now a patient in Medical Hospital, Richmond.

This new case is the second for Appomattox County this year.

Fred Smith is campaign chairman for the drive, which runs from August 16 to the end of the month on a national basis. "Boots" LeGrand is assisting Mr. Smith as co-chairman. T. DeWitt Evans is chairman of the County Chapter of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation. Judge Joel W. Flood is special gifts chairman, C. W. Smith is serving for solicitation, through churches. Mrs. Thomas Richardson is chairman for the "Mothers March on Polio" which is scheduled for September 2. Frank Wooldridge is fund treasurer.

Iron Lung gift containers have been distributed for the convenience of those contributing to the emergency drive.

Reasons listed for the emergency March of Dimes drive are that funds have been exhausted in paying for care of polio patients plus the vaccine tests and gamma globulin. But there are new victims daily and thus more money is needed to bring the research fight to a successful conclusion.

Warn of Danger In Bad Water

Appomattox County Health Department is concerned about drinking water during there hot summer and fall months. The following is published for the information of the people in this community:

The public should be mindful of the fact that water may carry organisms causing disease in the human being. This is particularly true during the hot season when there are so many out-of-door activities that cause the loss of water from the body and demand its replacement.

Water differs from other articles of diet in that it is partaken raw, while 90 per cent of all other food is disinfected by cooking before it is consumed. Water comes in contact with many different things spread over wide areas and is the natural vehicle for removal of wastes from these areas.

Avoid drinking water from any source other than approved public water supply or from wells and springs that are protected and have been examined by the health department. If it should be necessary to drink water that is suspected of being contaminated or the safety of which is unknown, boil it before taking it into the body.

ABC Shares Less This Year

The county of Appomattox and the incorporated towns of Appomattox and Pamplin will receive slightly less this year as their share of the profits of the State ABC Board. The profits are distributed on a per capita basis. Last year the pay-off was at the rate of $3.19 per capita. This year it will be $2.93.

The actual figure for this year is an unruly matchematical oddity, being extended to nine decimal points: $2.933349958.

The drop in net profits was attributed to a decline in gross sales in state stores and a slight increase in operating costs.

Congressman Watkins M. Abbitt (D-Va.) announced in Washington today that he has taken up with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson the recent order issued by the Secretary which has so adversely affected the small wheat growers of Virginia and other states. Abbitt said he reminded Benson that the law permits the growing of at least 15 acres of wheat on each individual farm without penalty and that it was unfair and caused undue hardship on the small farmers for the Secretary by Executive Order to circumvent this law and cause these farmers to lose government support on their other basic crops because they plant enough wheat to furnish their families with flour and feed their own livestock.

Abbitt pointed out that many of the small farmers do not produce the same wheat acreage each year but try to raise sufficient to take care of their own needs. As a result of this many of these farmers received acreage allotments insufficient to take care of their own needs, which means they will have to buy flour for their family and feed for their own livestock unless the Secretary's order is rescinded or modified. The effect of the order is to deprive the farmer of support on his tobacco, peanuts or cotton if he exceeds his wheat acreage allotment even though he sows less than 15 acres of wheat as allowed under the law.

Abbitt also pointed out to the Secretary that the new legislation just passed by the Congress permits the Secretary to make his regulations so that farmers will be permitted to produce sufficient crops for use in the farm feeding operation and certainly in view of this Mr. Benson should take the necessary steps to relieve the hardship on the small farmers who are only producing wheat for their own use and consumption on their farm and in no way affecting the surplus supply of wheat.

Congressman Abbitt, along with Congressmen Harrison and Tuck, wrote the following letter to Secretary Benson:

August 19, 1954

Honorable Ezra T. Benson
Secretary of Agriculture
Department of Agriculture
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Secretary:

Our understanding is that the law permits the production on a farm of as much as fifteen acres of wheat without receiving a penalty for same regardless of the allotment and that a farmer producing fifteen acres or less is not permitted to vote in any wheat referendum.

Notwithstanding the above, we understand that recently you have issued an Executive Order the effect of which is to require a farmer to comply with all acreage allotments

The profits are distributed on a per capita basis. Last year the pay-off was at the rate of $3.19 per capita. This year it will be $2.93.

The actual figure for this year is an unruly mathematical oddity, being extended to nine decimal points: $2.933349958.

The drop in net profits was attributed to a decline in gross sales in state stores and a slight increase in operating costs.
